Olabisi Ofunniyin focuses her practice in the area of employment and labor law. She is part of a team that represents companies of all sizes on the full scope of employment and labor issues.

She received her law degree from North Carolina Central University School of Law. While in law school, she served as senior editor for the North Carolina Central Law Review, as a law school ambassador on the Chief Justice's Commission on Professionalism, and as a student representative for the North Carolina Bar Association Law Student Division. Also while in law school, Olabisi served as a law clerk for the Honorable Loretta C. Biggs in the U.S. District Court for the Middle District of North Carolina, assisting in researching and drafting published opinions.

Prior to joining Parker Poe, Olabisi worked as a Certified Public Accountant, and she brings with her nearly a decade of broad fiscal, operational, and business knowledge in both the financial services and manufacturing industries. She has maintained her license as a CPA with the North Carolina State Board of Certified Public Accountant Examiners and the Virginia Board of Accountancy. She received her bachelor's degree from Virginia State University.
